Another Beatles Christmas Record

Just a year ago The Beatles made their first Christmas record for exclusive distribution to fan club members. And the end of another splendid period of world-wide pop supremacy our fabulous fourness have made a second musical present, recording a Christmas gift to the club's 65,000 Beatle People. This disc will not be in the 10 pence additional copies will never be pressed. The contents of this sleeve will make each fan club member the owner of numerous "brands. Money can't buy ANOTHER BEATLES CHRISTMAS RECORD—but with membership of the most with a fan club in Britain the disc comes through your letterbox free of charge in time for suitable parties and holiday record sessions. This is the uniquely pleasant way in which John, Paul, George and Ringo choose to say Thank You to thousands of fans throughout the nation.

The Official Beatles Fan Club of Great Britain operates from special offices in Central London. Near not Secretaries Anne Collingham and Bettina Rose have a hard-working staff of thirteen assistants to help fan club members. And in every county throughout the British Isles there is a local Area Secretary to receive member queries on a voluntary basis. Overseas you'll find a branch of the club in every town a score of counties scattered around the globe. Each branch is run quite independently but with the authorisation and supervision of Anne and Bettina in London.

The four boys find time to pop into the club headquarters despite their hectic schedule of tours, television appearances, recording sessions, film work and broadcasts. The girls in the office still retain vivid memories of the morning Paul dropped in for a chat, joined in with the gang to stamp up a batch of membership cards and then treated the entire staff to an excellent lunch in a nearby chophouse.

The Beatles Third Christmas Record

THIS SPECIAL RECORD IS NOT FOR PRIVATE OR PUBLIC SALE. IT IS DISTRIBUTED FREE OF CHARGE TO MEMBERS OF THE OFFICIAL BEATLES FAN CLUB. PLAY AT 33 1/3 R.P.M. USING A NORMAL LP STYLE.

THE BEATLES THIRD CHRISTMAS RECORD was made immediately after The Beatles finished work on their latest album, "Let It Be". To complete some further LP tracks John, Paul, George and Ringo spent a series of quiet days and nights in the recording studios with George Martin. Never before have they given such concentrated and extended attention to the production of an album. The Beatles have always been perfectionists but on this occasion they spent a great deal of time listening to countless ideas until at different instrumental sounds. They set out to make "Let It Be" the most varied LP programme of their career and they succeeded in achieving this aim.

A special fan club record from John, Paul, George and Ringo for Christmas has become a tradition. At the same time the greatest service is done to that the record will give the greatest service to the fan club of this kind to their loyal fans. THE BEATLES THIRD CHRISTMAS RECORD cannot be bought in the shops. Copies are not available at any price to people who do not belong to the Official Beatles Fan Club Of Great Britain. There is only one way to make the whole picture complete. Just about everything else the four boys do — whether it is a concert tour, a recording session or a television show—becomes known or most public and exclusive—collected items whose value to Beatle People will increase with each year that passes.

Incidentally, I wonder how many members recognise the setting of the picture to be seen on the front of this sleeve. It was taken in Granada's Manchester television studios when the boys made their spectacular Christmas music for "Let It Be". The photograph was taken, the Beatles looked into the camera, the boys were in the studio. On the back of the sleeve, fan club member Anne Collingham writes: "Thank you letters during the course of the year. I think it's time something and thank you letters. The four boys and the four girls at Monmouth Street. There's never a quiet moment at the club headquarters. But Anne's boy band too what they're doing and even when things get particularly hectic, such things find them helpful if you drop in or telephone the office.
